Shot, Killed Husband In Total Darkness, Ann Woodward Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Ann Woodward told authorities Monday night she shot her millionaire sportsman husband to death in total darkness without a word of warning. She said she thought she was beset by a prowler.

A vague noise in their Long Island home early Sunday touched off her taut nerves, she related, and she flung open her bedroom door to fire a shotgun blindly into a darkened hallway outside.

Simple Ceremony Marks Retirement Of Gen. L.B. Puller

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP) — A simple ceremony Monday marked the retirement of one of the most decorated heroes in Marine Corps history, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. "Chestey" Puller, 57.

Instead of an elaborate parade and review which his rank and honors rated, the stocky, little general requested a quiet ceremony in the office of Brig. Gen. Russell N. Jordahl, base commander.

An enlisted man, Sgt.-Maj. Robert L. Norrish, pinned the third star of a lieutenant general on Puller's shoulders. Puller will hold this rank in his retirement which begins Tuesday. Sgt. Norrish and the colorful general first served together at Quantico, Va., more than 30 years ago when Puller was a lieutenant and Norrish a private.

Gen. Puller served 37 years in the Marine Corps, 27 either at sea or overseas. During his service he won 14 personal decorations in combat and 39 campaign medals, unit citations, ribbons and other awards. He is the only Marine ever to win the Navy Cross five times for heroism in action.

Surgeons Say Day Near For Replacing Man's Vital Organs

CHICAGO (AP) — The dramatic day when you can get a new heart or lungs, kidneys or glands to replace your own tired or ailing organs is coming closer.

Prominent surgeons Monday reported new discoveries brightening hopes that living organs can be transplanted from one person to another. Healthy organs from persons killed in accidents, for example, could be transplanted to bring health and longer life to other humans.

"I believe the solution is not too far away," Dr. Herbert Conway, New York City, told the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Creighton A. Hardin, Kansas City, said he believes "the problem is solvable in time."

Surgeons already have the technical know-how to give you skin borrowed from someone else, or even hook up a borrowed kidney. Lungs have been transplanted in animals with mechanical success. So have glands. So probably can living hearts.

But the rub is that nature sets up a roadblock to prevent the borrowed organs from staying alive. By some mysterious reaction, your body rejects and kills the borrowed "foreign" tissue.

Transplants of skin, or perhaps kidney, succeed permanently and in living state only between identical twins. Skin transplants also seem to work in rare cases when the borrower lacks a blood material, gamma globulin, which may play a part in the rejection or killing mechanism.

Israel Asks Molotov Halt Sale Of Red Arms To Egyptians

GENEVA (AP) — Prime Minister Moshe Sharett called on Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Monday night to halt the sale of Communist bloc arms to Israel's Arab neighbors.

Sharett went into the conference with Molotov resolved to tell him the Communist tactic:

1. Might touch off new Mideastern fighting that could engulf Europe and the world.
2. Penalize Israel's policy of nonalignment, which Russia supports in other parts of the world.

Senate Antitrust, Monopoly Group To Study GM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee Monday announced a full-scale study of General Motors.

This study of the world's largest manufacturer will be a part of the subcommittee's look at concentration in the automotive industry.

The public hearings, to start Nov. 8, will run three or four weeks. Witnesses are to include GM executives, people who deal with GM and economists.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), a subcommittee member, has been designated to preside by Chairman Kilgore (D-W.Va.) who is abroad.

O'Mahoney said the sessions "are not an 'investigation' but a study. The subcommittee and its staff are not in search of defendants for prosecution under the antitrust laws."

Nevertheless, the senator said the "staff has studied a number of complaints that General Motors and other automobile producers are forcing dealers to purchase unwanted cars, parts and accessories, and exercise dictatorial control over the type and size of their establishments, accounting methods, advertising and other business practices."

Have No Clues In Deaths Of Boys Fifteen Days Ago

CHICAGO (AP) — The county prosecutor conceded Monday night that authorities have no clues at all to the persons who viciously strangled to death three Chicago schoolboys 15 days ago.

Top law enforcement officials of Chicago and surrounding Cook County met in an atmosphere of gloom to discuss ways of speeding the search for the killers of Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother, Anton, 11.

Afterward State's Atty. John Guinckel, the county's chief prosecutor, conceded under prodding from reporters:

"So far as locating the killers is concerned, we are still in the dark. We have no clues who the killers are."

Authorities have questioned dozens of persons and run down scores of so-called clues found in the area where the three naked and beaten bodies were discovered.

Freed Fulbright Scholar Calls Red Prison 'Place Of Hope'

HONG KONG (AP) — Miss Harriet Mills, a 35-year-old Fulbright scholar from New York City, walked to freedom Monday and described the Red Chinese prison in which she spent 51 months as "a place of hope. A place where new people are made."

She told reporters she was an unpaid U.S. and British "espionage agent" and spent considerable time in the prison in ankle chains and with her hands cuffed behind her back. She said this was because she repudiated one of her confessions. But, she added, her jailers treated her "with the utmost consideration and courtesy."

"The Communists had a perfect right to arrest me. I confessed from the very day I was arrested. My arrest has been the most decisive thing that has happened to me," she said, adding that if she had not been imprisoned she would not have been able to see how wrong were her thoughts about the Red Chinese government.

She declared Americans are "warmongers" and the U.S. government "is embarked on an aggressive policy." But added, "I must make it clear I am not referring to the broad masses in the United States." She said the Chinese government has "a genuine desire for peace."

Miss Mills was one of four

Communist sale of arms to the Egyptians is seen by Western and Israeli diplomats alike as a bid to leapfrog Russian influence over the Baghdad alliance binding the countries along the northern tier of the Mideast. They are Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan, Britain also is a member, while the United States expects to join later. Russia and Israel alike have denounced that pact.

The Russians are believed also to want a voice in Mideastern affairs—possibly at a big power conference in which the Arabs and Israelis could sit in. Molotov's immediate reaction to the Israeli protest was not disclosed.

It was the first time Sharett had met face-to-face with Molotov since Czech tanks, guns, submarines and MIG fighters began to flow into Egypt.

He applied to Molotov in Moscow nearly two weeks ago for the conference. He got a definite yes only Saturday. Molotov may have delayed his answer as long as he could in the hope of impressing some of Russia's Arab associates.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and Secretary of State Dulles warned Molotov over the weekend that Soviet thrusts into the Mideast menace the "spirit of Geneva." French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay is due also to protest soon.

The Israeli leader approached Molotov after getting two broad although limited Western assurances.

On arms: Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay have made it clear they will sell defense equipment to Israel—but not in such abnormal quantities as to set off an arms race.

On security:

The Western Big Three are nearly set to repeat their 1956 warning against any would-be aggressor in the Mideast. In that declaration they assumed the role of policemen to protect the frontiers of the area.

They are thinking now of adding a postscript warning that the West will not tolerate any action on the high seas — By submarines, say against ships of any nations sailing on lawful occasions. This general reaffirmation almost certainly will not be issued in Geneva but in the three capitals, to insure it is not in any way related to the Big Four talks here.

Blizzard Foils Attempt To Rescue Woman Elk Hunter

THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (AP) — A blinding mountain blizzard drove an Air Force helicopter from an isolated landing spot on 12,495-foot Washakie Needle Peak Monday, foiling an attempt to rescue a 35-year-old woman stricken while elk hunting Saturday.

Mrs. Mildred Ernst, bundled up in a fleecy-lined sleeping bag, will be forced to spend another night in the rugged mountains before rescue parties can bring her to safety.

A group of 10 Thermopolis high school football players were expected to pack Mrs. Ernst to an isolated clearing by nightfall.

The ground party was only two miles away from the clearing when the fierce snowstorm forced Capt. Edward Brejt to take off in the helicopter rather than risk becoming snowbound. The helicopter will return to the clearing early Tuesday.

Dr. R. E. Kunkel of Thermopolis was dropped off at the rendezvous spot, about 8,600 feet in elevation, and he planned to stay overnight.

Mrs. Ernst, owner of four Wyoming radio stations, was stricken with what her husband, Joe, called a heart attack while they were elk hunting.

DAIRY WORKER GOES TO WORK — THROUGH TAVERN

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — George Walker, 28, went through the Belmont Tavern on his way to work at a dairy Monday.

Trouble was, he was in his car, and Walter Blackman, asleep upstairs, said the trip left $2,500 damage.

Walker said he swerved to avoid a car that pulled out in front of him, and he smashed through the side of the tavern. He came out the front and before he stopped he had bumped the front of a grocery across the street.

Walker got out unhurt, but police handed him a ticket for reckless driving.

Name Dr. E. Telford Illinois Family Doctor

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Elbridge W. Telford, 54-year-old DeKalb, Ill., veteran of two military conflicts, was named Illinois "family doctor" for 1956 Monday — the youngest Illinois doctor named to receive the award.

The selection has been made for the last eight years by the Illinois State Medical Society.

Dr. Telford will receive a citation at the annual meeting of the society in May, Dr. F. Garm Norbury of Jacksonville, society president, announced.

Israel Charges Egyptians Cross Armistice Line

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli military spokesman said Monday Israeli forces repelled an Egyptian foray into Israeli territory east of Gaza.

It was the latest in a series of border violation charges that have raised fears of another Palestine war and sparked appeals for peace from the United Nations. Britain sent representatives to Israel and Egypt Monday adding its voice to the U. N. pleas.

The Israeli spokesman said an Egyptian force under cover of automatic fire crossed the armistice line in the Nirim area east of the central sector of the Gaza strip. He said an Egyptian position at the same time opened fire on an Israeli outpost. No casualties were reported on the Israeli side.

Earlier, Israel charged Egyptian planes, believed to be Vampire jets, made four separate sorties over Israeli territory Sunday.

Abe Weatherwise Predicts Bitter Winter For 1956

DUBLIN, N. H. (AP) — The Old Farmers' Almanac, oldest periodical in America still continuously published in the same name and original appearance, will be out Tuesday with a dismal prediction of a bitter winter ahead.

The coming winter, according to the almanac's expert, Abe Weatherwise, will be "as severe as the 20th Century."

Furthermore, a lot of other things can happen, warns this 164th annual edition covering the year 1956. Under a special heading, "Keep a Sharp Eye on 1956," the OFA takes a look at astronomical cycles and sees factors which it says can produce tidal forces and rhythms which could change ocean currents, and this, says the OFA, might bring marked effects on world climate and ice migrations, and bring more icebergs — among other things.

Month by month, beginning with bleak November weather, Abe foresees bad storms and blustery cold succeeding one another — with very few mild spells or thaws and no real winter weather break until late March. A large part of the country, he says, may expect "very cold" weather in the Christmas season and a snowy New Year.

Plan To Request Postal Rate Hike Approved By Ike

DENVER (AP) — Postmaster General Summerfield, leaving it to President Eisenhower to hoist the signal for talking politics, got the chief executive's consent Monday for another attempt at boosting postal rates.

A four-cent stamp for regular letters and seven cents for air mail is under consideration.

The man who managed Eisenhower's 1952 presidential campaign as Republican national chairman told a news conference he just discussed Post Office Department business with the chief executive — no politics.

Like other Cabinet members who have visited the recuperating President, Summerfield insisted it would be "inappropriate" to take up with Eisenhower now the political impact of his heart attack.

"Don't you think," he asked, "I should give that signal rather than one of us?"

When that signal might come, the postmaster general didn't indicate.

Eisenhower advanced in his convalescence to the point Monday where his doctors decided on a significant deletion from their medical bulletins.

Over and over they have been saying that "The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

Dulles Lifts Ban On Travel To Russia

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov asked the Western Powers Monday to join in a revised collective security pact with the Soviet bloc, leaving Germany divided and setting no deadline for abolishing the military alliances of East and West.

In revising his thrice-rejected security treaty, Molotov said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Western European Union and the Communist Warsaw treaty organization should be liquidated. But he said the Soviet government does not propose a date for the liquidation.

Youssef Leaves Exile, Bids For Moroccan Throne

BEAUVALLON, France (AP) — deposed Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef, 41, returned to France from a two-year Madagascar exile Monday and entered political talks that could return him to his turbulent Moroccan throne within three weeks.

Amid nationalist exultation and opposition to the Sultan, Youssef took up temporary residence in a well guarded Riviera hotel and prepared for a meeting, tentatively set for Tuesday in Paris, with Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

The Sultan met Monday afternoon with Pinay's right-hand man, Henri Yrissou, to arrange the meeting that could pave the way for his return to Morocco. Pinay was scheduled to go to Paris from Geneva, where he is attending the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

The French government view is now held to be that Moroccan opposition to the Sultan has ceased to exist and, barring any untoward outbreaks, he could resume his throne by Nov. 18, anniversary of the date he ascended the throne in 1927 on his father's death.

Perfect Circle Peace Talks Start In Hopeful Manner

CHICAGO (AP) — Peace talks in the bitter Perfect Circle Corp. strike which brought gunfire and martial law to eastern Indiana began Monday in a hopeful atmosphere.

Officials of the company and leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers met at the same table with commissioners James A. Allen and Edward F. Windes in the Chicago offices of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Charles H. Alsip, U. S. mediation director for the Chicago region, who sat in on the talks at intervals, said "the attitude on both sides is very good."

Alsip said he expected negotiations to continue Tuesday.

A decision by the National Labor Relations Board to hold decertification elections in three of the company's four plants where the UAW is bargaining agent promised to clear the air on the union's bargaining status.

The Automobile Manufacturers Assn. estimates that the current annual 560 billion miles of U. S. motor vehicle travel will increase by 33 per cent by 1965.

Dr. Brien said any announcements about the wedding would come from Mrs. Warren in Washington. Miss Warren said of their wedding plans: "We haven't even thought about it yet."

Margaret Ends Suspense; Will Not Marry Townsend

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret told the world Monday night she has renounced her hope of marrying divorced Peter Townsend.

Townsend—who is 40 and 15 years older than the princess—left the stately mansion alone and drove away toward the seclusion of the English countryside. He went back to Uckfield House in Sussex, where he and Margaret had spent the weekend.

"He is not in a fit state to see anyone tonight," a member of the staff there said.

The princess is third in line of succession to the throne. She has known Townsend for 11 years, since he came to work as an aide to her father, King George VI.

The restrained tone of her statement was somewhat in contrast to the emotional statement King Edward VIII read over the radio 19 years ago in abdicating for love of the Baltimore divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson.

"I am deeply grateful for the concern of all those who have constantly prayed for my happiness," the 113-word announcement, was issued at Clarence House, her home, only an hour after she and

INFORMALITY HAS ITS LIMITS

The accent is on informality in American living, as we all know. For the most part this is all to the good, but there's a trap or two. We have to be on guard that informality does not fall into total gracelessness.

These days the casual note dominates in our wearing apparel—sport shirts, slacks, sweaters and skirts, soft, comfortable, low-heeled shoes, and so on.

It's the same around the house. Lots of the new houses feature large, open areas without partitions. A family can arrange its living within the area any way it wishes, with activities flowing easily from one part to another.

Just as easily, the family pattern expands to take in the outdoors. This is the age of the terrace, the canvas chair and the charcoal brazier.

Our cars reflect the trend. Station wagons, the all-purpose vehicles, used to be virtually custom-built products. Today many manufacturers offer them in several different models, and even their high price isn't discouraging buyers who want flexibility in their transportation arrangements. The so-called hardtop convertibles are another sign of the informal approach.

Nobody with any sense wants to interrupt or reverse this trend. Life can be trying enough without placing it in the strait-jacket of stiff formality. The days of the starched collar, the drawing room nobody sat in, and the car that looked like a hearse are gone forever.

But "informality" as a term can be used to cloak a lot of habits and attitudes that come pretty close to being crude.

The line between acceptable informality and downright sloppiness is not always well maintained these days in the attire some of us wear. One can be casual without forgetting that clothes should be neat, clean, and at least bearable to the eye.

Rising costs have, of course, squeezed some of the space out of the postwar house. In countless homes there's too little of it for growing families whose possessions crowd every untenanted square inch.

But we still have to fight the battle to keep our places neat and orderly. A home without some semblance of order, outside and in, is a small patch of chaos in a teeming world where the decencies can only begin at the family level.

It's wonderful to live casually. It's also wonderful to live graciously, for that reflects the best in human beings. The two things aren't antagonistic but can go together very well.

Informality used as license for disorder may one day produce sharp reactions toward the rigid formalities of old. Informality wisely governed may lead us to the most rewarding living we have ever known.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Death gets to be less of a stranger as you grow older.

As he harvests more and more of your friends and enemies, your sense of survival becomes smaller. You are suddenly aware that more than 50 per cent of the people you've met in your lifetime are no longer with you.

I have the uncomfortable feeling some days that I have at least reached that 40 per cent figure, though I do my heart's best to create fresh loyalties as I move along.

Some days this is hard to do. Old loyalties have a way of creeping back into your mind.

There are some memories a man can't afford. It is too perilous a self-indulgence. Some remembrances will crack the average middle-aged person's mind unless he turns his thoughts away.

But the past always churns in every brain, and I think at times of "Shorb" Schultz.

Back in 1928 I was a green copy boy and one of my duties was to carry late Saturday night copy from The Associated Press office in the Kansas City Star building to the AP office in the Journal-Post.

Shorb, to whom I delivered the copy, was one of my boyhood heroes. He was a telegrapher. He was about 5 feet tall and 5 feet around the middle.

Schultz left nothing to chance. He was a bachelor. He made money playing the grain market on the side. His girl friend sold magazine subscriptions, so he got his reading matter free.

Food was an obsession with him. He always brought his own lunch and dinner. His endless sandwiches and pieces of fruit were separately wrapped, and he unwrapped each small tidbit as if he were unveiling the Taj Mahal. After each meal he took a big swig from a bottle of mineral oil he had handy. He felt his program kept him healthy as well as fat.

To fetch him the rolled-up news copy I had to cross a viaduct. Often on a cold Missouri night I'd stand there and watch the steam floating up and listen to the long "who-who-who" of engines setting out for old St. Louis or neighing in pause on the long road to Los Angeles.

The night held a magic glamor. Big black cars drove by and I could hear the sound of feminine laughter floating back. I dreamed that sometime one of the big black cars would halt and an older woman with blonde hair and ruminous eyes would call in a throaty voice, "Won't you come in?"

Progress caught up with Shorb. The Morse wire was replaced by an automatic printer machine that forced him to punch first 40 words a minute, then 60 words.

His two flying pudgy fingers couldn't quite keep up with the tape. He took a job between midnight and morning when news was scarce so that he could fight out the problem of adjusting to a new system. He never really quite made it.

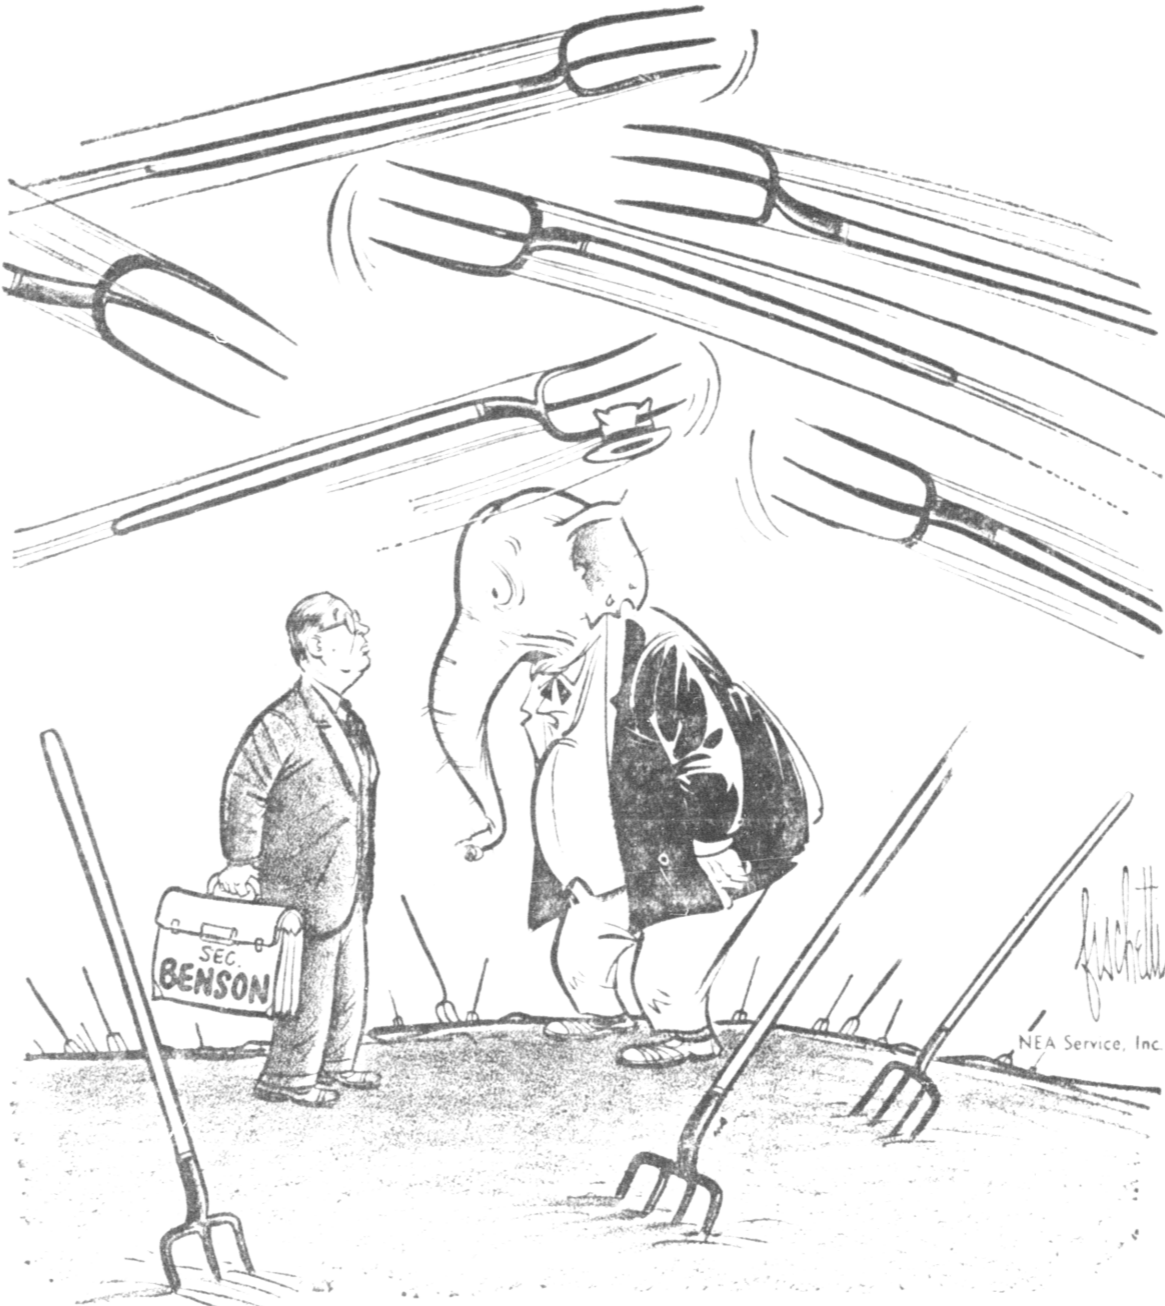

He still brought his food in neat parcels. He drank more deeply of the mineral oil. He never complained. But one day the little gallant fat man stood up, then fell over dead. Something in his heart or head had burst.

Still at times I think of Shorb and the long-gone time when I fetched the news copy to him across the viaduct where the trains cried "who-who-who."

Supposing I did walk that way again and this time one of the big black sleek cars really did stop and a girl with a throaty voice called, "Where are you going—can I give you a lift?"

What would I do? I know. I'd say, "No, thank you, ma'am. I'm just out for a bit of fresh air."

"The Natives Are Getting Restless"

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Many Poisons Threaten Incautious in Our Homes

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Accidental poisoning around the home has become a matter of increasing concern to physicians and others during recent years.

For one thing, this chemical age has multiplied the number of potentially poisonous substances which are marketed for a variety of reasons: cleaning fluids, furniture polishes, weed killers, insect and rat poisons, and many others.

During the latest year on which figures seem to be available nearly 1500 deaths occurred from accidental poisoning by solid or liquid substances.

Approximately one third of these were in children under five years old.

SINCE THE WAR a number of useful chemical substances against most of the common insects such as mosquitoes, ants, and flies, have been developed and placed on the market. Not all of these are harmless to human beings.

One of these, chlordane, has considerable poisonous possibilities not only when swallowed but when inhaled or even when it comes in contact with the skin.

I HAVE REFERRED on other occasions to the hazards from some of the cleaning fluids almost all of which are poisonous when swallowed, some of which are inflammable, and some of which are dangerous from inhalation of fumes if they are used in a close space.

In the latter classification belongs carbon tetrachloride or fluid, containing it, and there have been deaths and cases of chronic poisoning from this source.

The list is too long to discuss each one but I wish that each reader would go to the medicine cabinet and throw away, where no harm can be done, those poisonous preparations which are not going to be used, label the rest "poison" and place them out of the reach of small children.

Also, it would be desirable to go to the garage and basement and do the same thing there.

One can be terribly sorry if something happens—but then it is too late.

American Menu Celery Turkey Stuffing Preferred By French Chef

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Clement Granger, formerly head chef of the French Line, now executive chef of the Embassy Club in New York's Hotel Ambassador, will stuff his turkey a la Americaine. That means with celery and onion.

In the sumptuous Embassy Club Thanksgiving dinner. There was a choice of Cape Cod oysters, clams on the half shell or supreme of fruit.

The supreme of fruit consisted of sections of selected grapefruit, navel oranges, tart apples, fresh pineapple and grapes, garnished with fresh mint leaves.

Next came a subtly flavored cream of chicken soup.

There was roast young Vermont turkey with stuffing a la Americaine, his giblet-celery gravy, candied yams, mashed yellow turnips, creamed onions, an autumn salad lettuce, cucumbers, watercress with olive oil and wine vinegar dressing, mince and pumpkin pie and cheese, sweet cider, fresh fruit, raisins and nuts.

Stuffing a la Americaine

Clean a large stalk of celery. Do not remove green leaves. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Place in saucpan of water with 1 large onion, chopped, and the turkey heart, liver and gizzard, chopped. Simmer for 2 or more hours. Drain out cooked celery. In pan, saute 3 onions, chopped. When browned, add the cooked celery and stale bread broken into small pieces. Season with salt, pepper, and 1 teaspoon powdered sage. Mix over slow fire. Stuff turkey.

Use the cooked giblets and celery bouillon to make the gravy.

EMBASSY CLUB THANKSGIVING DINNER: Supreme of fresh fruit, cream of chicken soup, roast Vermont turkey, celery and onion stuffing, celery - flavored giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, candied yams, mashed yellow turnips, creamed onions, French rolls, lettuce and cucumber salad, oil and vinegar dressing, Glace Fantaie (assorted ice creams in parfait glasses with topping of brandied fruits) or pumpkin or mince pie, fresh fruits, raisins, nuts, sweet cider, coffee, tea, milk.

Prospect Is Gloomy for Disarmament Movement

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— With the United Nations five-power subcommittee on disarmament in recess while the Big Four foreign ministers wrestle with the problem at Geneva for a spell, a re-view on the lack of disarmament progress is being made.

Eight high-ranking military leaders, industrialists and educators have been assigned the job by the so-called Secretary for Disarmament, Harold E. Stasson.

The Eisenhower plan for exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection is still said to be basic American policy.

But this proposal—first made by the President at the Geneva summit meeting last July—has emerged as a greatly oversold or at least overbought, bill of goods.

The general assumption has been that the plan was a complete answer on disarmament.

Washington sources now admit privately that the Eisenhower plan was never intended to solve everything. It was a temporary solution only intended to allay the possibilities of sneak atomic attacks while permanent arms limitations are being worked out.

In the light of these deeds, all the words about reduction of armaments are made meaningless. This is interpreted as the real reason why U.N. disarmament talks seem so futile.

Manners Make Friends

When a boy telephones a girl she doesn't say, "Thank you for calling," before she hangs up. If she wants to she may say, "It was nice talking to you."

Girls are supposed to act pleased—but not grateful—for a young man's attentions.

THOUGHTS

Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints.—Philimon 1:5.

All the strength and force of man comes from his faith in things unseen. He who believes is strong; he who doubts is weak. Strong convictions precede great actions.—Clarke.

There are nearly 1,000 varieties of flowering plants in the Olympic Mountains of Washington State.

SO THEY SAY

If tolerance cannot be found in the schools and churches, in the shop and market place, it will nowhere be found.

—Attorney General Brownell denounces "professional bigots."

I'm just as certain as I can be that there is going to be a solid (Democratic) South again next year.

—Paul Butler, National Democratic chairman.

As early as October, 1941, when I returned from Moscow to report to President Roosevelt, I stated that in my opinion as long as Molotov was foreign minister it would be difficult, if not impossible for us to come to any understanding with the Soviet government.

—Averell Harriman says it would be "good news" for America if Russia's Molotov were removed as foreign minister.

The "Join the navy and see the world" slogan has been replaced by "Get elected to Congress and enjoy free travel anywhere."

The Mature Parent

Here's Why Early Teens Rush Ahead to Lipstick These Days

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last year it, the eighth grade Helen M. was allowed to wear lipstick to school. This year she's taken to using pancake make-up. It's the cause of much friction with her mother who says that Helen's complexion is in no need of this cosmetic.

She writes, "But I'm tired of nagging about it. Do I put my foot down? I understand that several other youngsters in her class wear this type of make-up. I just don't understand it as in my day you didn't even start lipstick until your middle teens..."

This is Helen's day, not her mother's. But if Mrs. M. will listen to it closely with me for a minute, it can tell us why Helen has to cover her face with skin-colored grease to be comfortable.

Nearly every moment of this day of hers is filled with a clamor that cries out to her, "Helen, the human body in its natural state is a horrid thing! Remember that we've warned you. Its nasty insides can betray you by getting oily, putting pimples on your face, generating perspiration, shaming you with evil odors. If you do not keep this unpredictable and dangerous enemy of a body carefully deodorized, shaved, depilated, powdered, greased and watered with pleasant-smelling chemicals, it can make you so socially loathsome to other people that you might as well be dead."

This is our New Prudery. In its way, it's harder on people of Helen's age than the Victorian kind that merely frowned on the body's sexual functions as horrid. The New Prudery frowns on all the body's functions as horrid.

Where the Victorian miss had only to see that the sight of her legs didn't offend her prudes, poor Helen has to keep check on all of her lest an enlarged pore, a naked fingernail or some other equally disgusting betrayal offend her prudes. Under these harrowing circumstances, I don't wonder she sees the shelter of facial grease any more than I wonder that the Victorian miss used a billowing crinoline to hide her natty's from view.

So, please let's not put the foot down on Helen's effort to protect herself against hostile attention. Frankly, I think it would be just as well to get rigid and tough about this make-up as it would be to get porcupine for extending his quills.

Let's wait a little. The moment a porcupine is sure that he's going to be able to manage his environment, his quills lie down. If we can just give Helen a little more time to get surer of the changing body life, I'm going to bet she will grow her natty to a healthy length.

Remembering the old Indian fighter formula, Carson and his companion Gudey "surprised" the Apache horse thieves in their village.

Apache believed the two were part of a large force and fled. Kit returned to Fremont with the horses and two Indian scalps.

Fremont's report of the incident won national fame for Kit, and in 1846 he was with Fremont's third expedition to California.

Meanwhile, the United States and Mexico had gone to war.

Bobby Prather Suffers Broken Collar-Bone

Bobby Prather, a sophomore at Jacksonville High School, suffered a broken collar-bone in the annual freshman-sophomore football game played at the JHS field yesterday afternoon.

National BB Congress Launches Tourney Program

PHOENIX, Ariz. (Special) — A non-professional basketball organization—the National Basketball Congress—will launch its first nationwide tournament program this fall. The first national championship meet is scheduled for Phoenix, Ariz., March 24-April 1, 1956.

The NBC has one chief aim, that of providing a tournament program for the thousands of players who do not fit into the collegiate, AAU, or professional post-season tourney programs.

Eligibility rules of the new association have been patterned after amateur policies of intercollegiate conferences and recreation associations. Athletic coaches, physical education instructors, and former professional athletes—as well as amateurs—will be permitted to compete in the NBC tournaments on a strictly amateur basis.

Fifty per cent of revenue from state and national tournaments will be returned to sponsors of visiting teams to help pay expenses incurred for travel, lodging, and meals.

State and district commissioners for the international organization are now being appointed. Basketball leaders interested in applying for NBC commissionships may write the National Basketball Congress, 1725 West Roosevelt, Phoenix, Arizona.

Clark Griffith Services Held

WASHINGTON (AP)—They buried Clark Griffith Monday after a minister told a hushed gathering at the Hamline Methodist Church that Griffith "did more than anyone past or present for organized baseball."

The Rev. J. A. Leatherman, described the death of the 85-year-old baseball veteran last Thursday as "opening day in the great beyond" for him.

The church, which seats 700, was filled. Many stood.

Among those assembled to pay a last tribute to the late president of the Washington American League club was a collection of baseball greats, past and present.

Will Harridge, president of the American League; Warren Giles, president of the National League; and officials of all 16 major league clubs attended.

GIANTS SELL BROADCAST RIGHTS

FAN BREEZES

BY BILL MERRIS

Football was the subject of conversation in room 350 of the Passavant Hospital last night. Joining IC's Henry Jackson on the injured list and in the same room is Jacksonville High School sophomore Bob Prather. Bob suffered a broken left collar-bone in a contest between the freshman and sophomores yesterday afternoon. Henry is on the shelf with a badly cut right leg. The injury was received in the IC-Culver Stockton contest Friday night. The IC lineman entered the hospital Friday evening and will remain until late this week. Bob expects to get out today.

It looks as if the Jacksonville Crimsons will have to play without star fullback Skip Dyer this Friday night at Taylorville. Coach Bob Kraushaar said last night it is very doubtful that Skip can play this week and there is a possibility he won't be ready for the final game of the season a week from Friday. They took more X-rays of Skip's leg yesterday afternoon. It is still badly swollen. Kraushaar said last night the injury may be worse than a pulled muscle as was first announced.

The other Crimsons injured in the Lanphier tilt, Jack Fairfield, is taking treatments and may be able to play Friday. Jack sprained his ankle. Tackle Bill Deaton, who has been out of action two weeks with a bad leg, ran a little yesterday and may be able to see limited service this weekend.

"My driving and my iron play are the best part of my game. Golf is a game in which you never cease learning. You find a better way of doing something all the time. It may be a variation of the grip or pivot. Golf is about 30 per cent timing, 20 per cent equipment and 50 per cent mental."

Those were the words of golf pro Jerry Barber when asked in the December issue of GOLF DIGEST the following two questions: 1. What do you best in golf today? and 2. What can you learn in golf, or from golf, that can help you the most in the future?

An interesting observation is that the former Jacksonville golfer says 50 per cent of the game is mental. This explains why we can't break 90. Jerry must know what he's talking about. Latest PGA money standings show him in ninth place among the tourney players. Jerry has won $18,865 in PGA events and another $2,877 in other tourneys. This gives him a grand total of $21,742 for the year. He's pro at a Los Angeles Country Club on the side.

In this same issue of the golf magazine, TV funnyman George Gobel, a close friend of pro Walt Burkemo, relates the following story: "Once I hit a tee-iron about six inches to the left of the cup." Gobel states, "and my partner started to hit from the same spot I had used. I stopped him and moved his ball six inches to the right. So help me, this shot went into the cup for an ace."

The Jacksonville junior varsity basketball team has entered the Ashland basketball tournament to be held January 10 through 13. Coach Ernie Hoff needs two more teams to take part in this meet. Anyone interested can contact Hoff at the Ashland school. Ashland's basketball team received a setback this past week when senior guard Dick Edwards broke his nose during a practice session. This is the second year in a row Edwards has broken his nose. He'll probably miss this opening game.

Illinois College coaches Al Miller and Joe Brooks met with Brick Young and Jack Hornberger at Bloomington yesterday. Al is head of the Prairie Conference committee on selecting basketball officials. Brick Young, sports editor of the Bloomington Pantagraph, will hire the officials for the PCC.

DO I GO IN NOW, COACH?

Army's Don Hollender Arrives As Passer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was just another football game at West Point on a bright October afternoon but the "arrival" of Army's Don Hollender as a passer made the story.

A year ago the drums were beating for the 6-2 Hollender as an All-America end candidate, with sharpshooting Pete Vann throwing to him.

Then last spring, Red Blaik, the Army coach, shifted Hollender to quarterback.

"I had nobody else," Blaik admitted. "It was Holly or nothing. He knew what he was up against but agreed to give it a try."

When Army smothered Furman in the opening game 81-0 and rolled over Penn State, there didn't seem too much to worry about. Hollender wasn't any passing sensation but he connected often enough to loosen up the defense.

Michigan proved to be a different matter. And Syracuse brought a day of dark disaster to the Point with Hollender floundering and Army losing a second straight week 13-0.

Despite a 45-0 romp over Columbia, Hollender's passing record for the year was a sad 6-for-31 with four interceptions. He had gained only 90 yards passing in five games.

That sets the scene for last Saturday's game with Colgate. Hollender threw twice, both too long and too hard for the potential receiver.

Then the big first-classman from Webster, N. Y., started to click. When they added the final statistics, he had completed his last seven in a row, three for touchdowns. His passing gains totaled 181 yards and his rushing yardage was a net 61 for a day's work of 242 yards, much more than he had made in five previous games.

The Army line gave Hollender plenty of protection. But he provided his own protection with his ability to run the ball when trapped.

Perhaps Hollender won't complete another pass all year. But future opponents, including Navy, can't afford to ignore the threat.

IC Leading Prairie Conference

The Illinois College Blueboys are currently leading the Prairie College Conference football race with a 2-1 record. The Blueboys are followed in the standings by Principia and Rose Poly with 1-1 records. These two schools play each other this weekend and a tie game will mean the Blueboys capture the conference title since the locals have completed loop action.

The winner of the Principia-Rose game can move into a tie with the Blueboys for the lead. Eureka is in last place with a 1-2 record. Only four teams in the conference play football.

Football Briefs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's regulars were given a respite from football practices Monday as Coach Terry Brennan devoted most of the time in opening preparations for the Penn game by showing movies of the Navy contest.

Trainer Gene Paszkiet reported that Wayne Edmonds, senior left tackle, and Aubrey Lewis, sophomore left halfback, will be doubtful participants for the Penn game Saturday. Edmonds re-injured his ankle against Navy and Lewis had a wrenched knee.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Monday began trying to recoup its offense for Michigan after it was stalled by Purdue Saturday. The Illini fell from a season average of 375 yards to 106 against the Boilermakers.

Quarterback Em Lindbeck guards Bob Baetto and George Walsh and halfback Mickey Bates are nursing minor leg ailments but all are expected to be ready for Michigan.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The Northwestern football squad went through a light warmup Monday then watched movies of Saturday's 49-0 loss to Ohio State.

Coach Lou Saban announced halfback Jerry Weber will be back for the Wisconsin game but two other backs, Dale Pienta and Ollie Lindborg, are question marks. All three missed the Buckeye game.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan football squad confined itself to a two-hour loosening up drill Monday after Saturday's dramatic, come-from-behind 33-21 victory over Iowa.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan let his charges off with a brief passing practice and calisthenics.

Only two players, halfback Jim Pace and guard Ed Meads, failed to report for practice. Pace is nursing an ankle injury and Meads a shoulder injury. Both are expected to be ready for action against Illinois next Saturday.

Chisox Expect Great Things From Luis Aparicio

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Monday began a buildup for rookie shortstop Luis Aparicio as they announced spring training plans.

Aparicio, 21-year-old heir apparent to the position held by his fellow Venezuelan, Chicago Carasquel, will be the center of attention among the youngsters invited to spring training.

The glowing reports of the youngster were one of the factors in the Sox decision to trade Chico, with the club six years, and outfielder Jim Busby to Cleveland last week for slugging centerfielder Larry Doby.

Vice President Charles Comiskey said the Sox will open spring training at Al Lopez field in Tampa, Fla., Feb. 20 with all pitchers, catchers and a few other invited members—plus 18 or 20 outstanding youngsters of the farm club—on hand. They will be given 10 days of workouts prior to March 1, when infielders and outfielders report to put the Sox squad at full strength.

'Never Took Money Under The Table', Says Surprised Santee

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Miller Wes Santee said Monday he was "very much surprised" to hear he had been suspended by the Missouri Valley AAU and he declared that he had never done anything to violate amateur athletic standards.

In Kansas City, the Missouri Valley AAU advised Santee Monday that he has "five days" to appeal the suspension it handed him Sunday.

The U. S. fastest miler, now a Marine Corps lieutenant, said he couldn't say whether he would appeal to the National AAU.

Asked in a telephone interview whether he thought he would be vindicated, Santee said: "I certainly hope so."

"I think the prime purpose of the AAU rules is to protect the athlete and I personally want to try to come back from the '56 Olympics with a gold medal."

Should the suspension be made permanent, Santee, the nation's leading threat for the 1,500 meters in the Olympics, would be barred from competition.

The National AAU meets at Louisville Dec. 1-4.

Santee said the first challenge of his amateur status was made by a California newspaper which he said maintained that he was "wined and dined" royally on appearances at West Coast track meets.

"I never took any money under the table," Santee said. "Everybody knew what was going on all the time. I got my permits and took them to the proper officials. AAU people in most cases."

In Kansas City, a Missouri Valley committee member, Kenneth Sells, said that while the committee thought the miler's expenses were more than what he should have received, champions "are expected to go first class, stay in the best hotels and eat in the best places."

Under these circumstances, Sells said the expenses would total more than the $12 a day allowed under AAU rules.

Sells said he believed Santee would be reinstated at the National AAU convention.

Santee declined to name the exact expense figures he collected but said they were on file with the meet authorities and could be examined by anybody.

FLORIDA SOLOX SHOT WHILE HUNTING TEETH

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A Florida state legislator, seeking help in a search for his missing false teeth, was apparently mistaken for a prowler Sunday night and shot.

State Rep. Marvin H. Rowell's condition was reported as satisfactory Monday by doctors at a Tallahassee hospital. He suffered neck and shoulder wounds when struck by a load of buckshot fired by a Negro near Monticello, Fla.

Earl J. Ricou, Martin County commissioner, said Rowell told him he lost his false teeth when he leaned from a train window during a brief stop at Lloyd, Fla. He got off to look for them, Ricou said, and the train pulled off without him.

Rowell then went to George Merritt's farm for help. Merritt told the Jefferson County sheriff's office he thought the representative was a prowler and shot him. Merritt is being held for investigation.

CONVICT DU REIL FOR DEATH OF SON

CLEVELAND (AP)—A jury Monday convicted salesman Norman Du Reil of manslaughter in the fatal squeezing of his 7-month-old son, Allan.

Du Reil, 25, who had pleaded innocent, was sentenced to 1-20 years in the reformatory by Common Pleas Judge William K. Thomas.

During the trial, Asst. Prosecutor Dennis McGuire maintained Du Reil squeezed the baby last April 4 in a fit of anger because it wouldn't take its milk, breaking its ribs and crushing its chest and liver.

Du Reil and his wife have two other children, 34 months and 2 years.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected rails performed well but industrial convertible issues shaded off in a narrow mixed bond market Monday. U. S. government bonds climbed 2-32 to 4-32. Plus signs were scattered throughout the treasury list. Corporate volume declined on the big board to $3,482,000 par value from $4,370,000 Friday.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market drifted down in the final hour Monday after holding higher for most of the session.

There was no particular reason for the selloff and it was not pronounced at any time. Prices moved within a relatively narrow range, with a few exceptions. The Dow Jones industrial average was down 17 1/2 points to 1,140.00.

At no time was there any great movement within major groups of securities. Trading was highly selective all day.

The market now has come down in four of the last five sessions. It was up moderately Friday. It currently stands a short distance up from the bottom of the great reaction that hit stocks on the news of the President's illness Sept. 26.

Brokers feel that the market is in the process of testing the old lows and perhaps may go through a period of indecisive movement marked by selective trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today was down 20 cents to 166.70. It was up 60 cents Friday. The railroad component of the average was off 60 cents while the industrial and railroad remained unchanged.

Business came to 1,800,000 shares as compared with 1,720,000 shares traded Friday.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed on volume of 640,000 shares as compared with 540,000 shares traded Friday.

GRAINS STAGE RALLY, ALL CLOSING HIGHER

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains staged a brisk advance on the Board of Trade Monday, in many cases closing at the day's highs.

Prices were a little lower at the start and dealings were very slow. However, the trend had been reversed. From then on the volume increased.

Wheat closed 1 1/2-2 1/2 higher, corn 1 1/2-1 3/4 higher, oats 3/4-1 higher, rye 1 to 3 cents higher, soybeans 4 to 4 1/2 higher and lard 18 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The general feeling that the government would take some action to help raising farm prices was an important stimulant. Traders noted the government already has announced a pork purchase program and has said it would curtail sales of its off-fered corn.

Signs that the movement of soybeans from farms was falling off for the selloff and it was not pronounced at any time. Prices moved within a relatively narrow range, with a few exceptions. The Dow Jones industrial average was down 17 1/2 points to 1,140.00.

Traders also appeared to take the regular monthly Census Bureau soybean crushings report as bullish. Crushings in September totaled 18,712,000 bushels compared with 19,981,000 in August and 11,140,000 in September, 1954.

More or less ignored was the announcement old crop soybeans on Oct. 1 totaled 10,007,000 bushels, which represents the carryover into the new crop year. At one time grainmen had expected a smaller carryover.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Shot, Killed Husband In Total Darkness, Ann Woodward Says

Apparently hysterical and in deep shock, Mrs. Woodward was brought from Oyster Bay to Deaconess Hospital here after the kill-pleated darkness.

She heard the back of her dog, she was frightened, hopped out of bed and grabbed the gun. She heard a sound. There was complete darkness.

Then he realized it was her husband. Born Anzeline Lucille Woodward, she was the daughter of a Pittsburg, Kan., farm couple. She came here at age 32. Kansas records listed it as 39.

Her parents were divorced in 1924 and her father is now retired as a Detroit, Mich., street car conductor. "He had broken into the house as a Detroit, Mich., street car conductor. There was a window broken. They

BELIEVE THIEVES USE PLANES

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP)—Thieves who may have traveled in a light plane, apparently landed on dimly lighted airfields at four cities in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan during the night and at each stop burglarized terminal offices of the North Central Airlines.

The total loot was estimated at $1,048. Authorities said $502 was taken at Rhinelander, Wis., in excess of $450 at Stevens Point, $20 at Ironwood, Mich., and $16 at Eau Claire, Wis., all stopping points on the North Central route. The airports are several hundred miles apart.

Police here said they had a report of a plane landing about 2 a.m. Monday. The Stevens Point Airport closed about 1 a.m. but is customary at all of the airports involved, emergency landing lights are left on all night although there is no attendant on duty. These lights consist of runway border lights and beacons.

The Ironwood and Rhinelander airports closed about 8 p.m. Sunday and the Eau Claire Airport about 9 p.m. Emergency runway lights are used.

STEVE CANYON

Day of the Outlaw

By Lee Wells

Copyright 1955, by Lee Wells. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Jack Bruhn, the outlaw, and his pack arrive in Bitter in time to break up a bid for gunplay at the Wyoming Saloon. Shortly after, one of the outlaws is wounded and Bruhn asks if there's a doctor in town. Bartender Tommy Rikes directs him to Doc Long.

VI

BRUHN pointed his finger at Claggett. "You go with Charley and get the doctor. Leave your gun here."

"Me!" Claggett demanded. "Show Charley the way," Bruhn said shortly.

Claggett lifted his hands to his belt buckle. Tex and the half breed watched him narrowly, their fingers played over their own guns. Claggett looked to Crane in appeal. A dull red suffused Crane's face.

"It's one thing to ask a favor," he said in a choked voice. "Another thing to spur a man. You stand hitched. That's an order."

Tex looked over his shoulder at Crane, eyes cold and narrow. Without warning or change of expression, he swung on the ball of his foot and his arm lashed out, the clenched fist traveling in a short piston stroke that cracked loudly off Crane's chin.

Crane's head snapped back, he hung suspended for a long second, then spilled backward, arms swinging wide, his feet turning at the ankles. He struck the bar with a dull thud, his body lurching forward with the impact, then settling back against the mahogany and sliding slowly down it. His rump struck the brass rail and he sat there, like a sodden drunk, then bumped to the floor and fell to one side.

Dan lunged forward. But a gun barrel jabbed in his side and the bearded Denver smiled a warning through his whiskers, his eyes slitted and waiting. Dan settled back on his heels.

Silence held the room. The eight outlaws calmly looked at Crane stretched in the sawdust, slack and unmoving. The others stared with a growing sense of horror. Lewis made a strangled noise in his throat and jumped away from the bar.

His hand whipped to his gun and his fingers touched the walnut butt. The gun had always been a tool for Lewis, never a weapon. He was slow, pitifully slow.

The kid with the handsome, pale face did not seem to move. Yet something flashed in the light and a blast of flame jumped from his hand, a spear of fire that lanced toward Lewis. Smoke billowed and, through it, Dan saw the pale eyes alight, dancing, filled with a glee that made something twist and crawl within him.

LEWIS jerked half around and his gun, only half out of the holster, caught on its lip, gave a half spin and dropped to the sawdust. His right arm hung limp as he catapulted against the bar, caught himself. He hung there, face slack with surprise, eyes rounded.

"Face," Bruhn growled, "you can be too quick."

Pace didn't move, his eyes fixed on Lewis. He spoke softly with a note of regret. "Why, Jack, he wanted to play gunhawk."

A snap came in Bruhn's heavy voice. "Put it up, Odium. You've dehorned him. You don't notch your gun on an unarmed man."

Crane roared and stirred. His eyes slowly opened and he stared glassily along the level of his head. He suddenly lifted his head, surprised.

"Still giving orders?" Bruhn asked silkily. Crane pulled himself up, looked down at the clinging sawdust on his shirt and trousers.

"Do as they say," he choked. "Nothing else for it."

Dan wondered why the outlaws had not bothered to take his gun and those of Crane, Starrett and the others. Tommy must have some sort of weapon hidden behind the bar, standard equipment for any saloon, no matter how peaceful. So far the outlaws had been well able to take care of themselves.

He tried to get Starrett's eyes in the mirror, make some signal to show that he was ready. He had a clear view of Starrett's face for a moment. Starrett's eyes grew thoughtful, actually pleased, and then he sat down so that Dan could no longer see his image in the mirror.

DAN lowered his eyes to his glass and he slowly moved it around on the bar between thumb and fingers. Blaise was no ally and Dan was at a loss to explain it. That left him Crane, and Crane had already tasted outlaw treatment. Dan eased slowly about and watched Hal, working over Lewis.

Hal ripped open the man's shirt and tried to stop the bleeding. From the sag of the shoulder and the useless hang of the arm, Dan judged Lewis had a splintered shoulder. Hal looked angry but Dan knew that, right now, he dared not bank on the man's help. Seven men lined against him, and Dan knew each was a killer.

Suddenly Bruhn, who had been staring into the bar mirror, turned and walked to the door. He opened it and looked out, studied the street in every direction. He looked thoughtful, and then his craggy jaw set. He turned, closing the door behind him.

"We'll stay here, boys." The outlaws turned, surprised but pleased. Bruhn looked at Dan. "Shuck your gun on the bar. That goes for you, mister." He added to Crane. He looked at Starrett, his glance an order. Starrett shrugged.

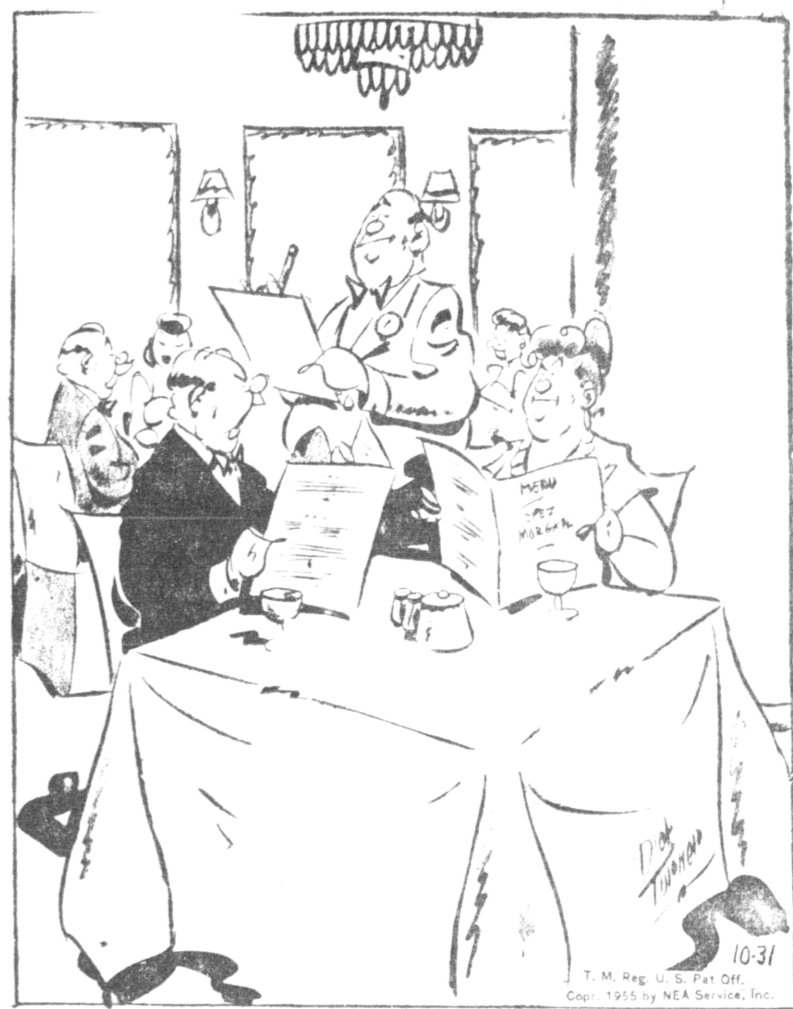

"You're the boss, Jack." Bruhn looked sharply at Starrett, as though trying to understand a slight friendliness where he had expected only distrust and hatred.
